

Rice Industry Graduate Program

- Structured development pathway for agriculture graduates
- Work closely with rice industry experts and develop valuable professional networks
- Earn a competitive salary while you learn

About the program

Delivered over 12 months, this experiential program includes:

- six diverse and complementary placements where you will work closely with relevant industry experts at:
 - Murray Local Land Services;
 - NSW Department of Primary Industries;
 - Rice Research Australia Pty Ltd;
 - Murray Irrigation Ltd;
 - a private agricultural consulting business; and
 - the Ricegrowers' Association of Australia Inc.
- attainment of a Diploma of Agriculture, Chemical Handling Certification and a skill set from the Certificate IV in Training and Assessment
- competitive remuneration and flexible working arrangements
- the opportunity to develop a wide range of helpful networks.

The program has been designed to give you a good exposure to the breadth of the rice industry and enable you to develop the skills and networks for ongoing success in the industry.

To be eligible you must:

- be an Australian citizen
- have completed a degree in agricultural science prior to commencing the program
- live in the NSW Murray Valley, preferably Deniliquin, while completing the program
- have a current drivers licence.

The Australian Rice Industry leads the world in rice crop yields and water use efficiency. If you're looking for a challenge and keen to be involved in a dynamic and progressive industry this program could be for you.

For more information about the program and details about how to apply, please contact the Ricegrowers' Association of Australia Inc. on 02 6953 0433 or at rga@rga.org.au.

Applications close 5.30pm Wednesday 7 May 2014.